Writing Style Guide

Introduction

- Who is this guide for?

Many people find it hard to read complex text.

This guide has been designed to assist you when preparing documents for people who have difficulty reading and understanding written information. The documents may be reports, forms, information sheets, flyers, brochures, booklets, and other written information. It provides you with information that you can apply to the readability of websites.

- How to use this guide

This guide will help you write information that is easy to understand. You need to check that the information you write follows the guidelines set out.

1. Before you start

Ask yourself:

- Who is the target audience?
- How much information and detail is needed?

Keep it to the minimum.

- What type of written information is it? For example, flyer, brochure.

- For information sheets or flyers use one side of the page. This makes it easy to know what to read first.
- For brochures use A4 or A3 size paper that opens once. This makes it easy to find the information.
- For booklets use a ring binder or spiral bind to hold the document together. This makes it easy to turn the pages.

2. Title

- Always use a title.
- Make the title clear and simple.
- Use a title that makes the content clear. Avoid using a catchy marketing phrase.

3. Contents – ‘in this book’

Make a list of what is in the document.

Include:

- Who the document is for.
- How to use the document.
- Where to get extra help to read the document.
- Use an index (if needed).
- Use a glossary (if needed).
- Give information about other formats and languages. Put this information inside the front cover.

Put:

- Date and year of publication.
- Where to find the original document.
- Contact details on the back page. Include names, phone numbers, fax numbers, TTY numbers, email and website addresses.

4. Layout

- Margins

Use wide margins, at least 2.5 cm wide.

- Left Justify

Line up all text to the left, including headings.

Do not centre text

- Spacing

Use extra space between lines and sentences. Double spacing is easy to read.

Increase space between numbers. For example, 6 and 8 .

- Emphasis

- Use the bold function for important words or phrases.

Use a box to highlight information.

- Use lower and upper case.
- DO NOT USE UPPER CASE ONLY.
- Do not use Italics.
- Use the underline function for websites only.

For example: www.scopevic.org.au

- Length
 - Use 50-60 characters per line.
 - Complete words on the line they start on.
 - For example, write communication not communication.
 - Finish a sentence on the page it starts on.

5. Inside the document

- Use headings.
- Use dot points or numbers.
- Write only the key points.
- Present information in a sequence of clear steps.
- Sequence information from left to right.
- Do not use columns of type.
- Make sure the page numbers use the same size font as the writing in the document.

6. Size of writing

- Font
Use Arial, Verdana, Tahoma or Helvetica font.
- Font Size
Use font size 14.

For brochures, information sheets and flyers use a font size of 16 or a font size of 18.

Use much larger font for posters.

7. Easy to read

- Use clear, simple language. Do not use slang.
- Use one idea per sentence.
- Use short sentences.
- Use direct language. Address readers as 'you'.
- Use clear examples that highlight the point you are making.
- Use active not passive sentences. For example, 'The girl kissed the boy.', not 'The boy was kissed by the girl.'
- Name the person first, then describe them. For example, 'a person with autism', not 'an autistic person'.
- Use full names. For example, 'street' not 'st.'
- Do not use acronyms or contractions of words. For example, write 'it is' not 'it's'.
- Use pictures, logos or photographs to add meaning to the text.
- Use numbers, for example 2 14 . Do not use words for numbers, for example, two.
- Keep punctuation marks to a minimum.

Activity

Try to write these examples in less complex words

1. Ensure appropriate planning.....
2. Develop a package of useful ideas.

See page 17 for answers

8. Use of images

Read the book 'Images for Easy English' for more information.

'Images for Easy English' is available from www.scopevic.org.au.

- Use an image on the title page to represent what the document is about.
- Use colour pictographs (if needed).
- Put extra spacing between lines of writing with images.
- Use a plain, solid background. Do not use 'watermark' graphics under text.

How to use images

- Use images sparingly.
- Only use images to illustrate key points or the main idea in a paragraph.
- Do not use an image for every word in the document.
- Use the same image for the same concept throughout the document.
- Use an image that accurately shows the idea in the text.
- Use an image that is appropriate for your target audience.
- Present writing and pictographs from left to right.

Example 1:

Example 2:

What images can you use?

- Pictures, pictographs, logos and photographs can add meaning to the document.
- Pictures, pictographs, logos and photographs can also make the document interesting and attractive to the reader.

Pictographs

A pictograph is a visual image. The image can be used to represent a concept, idea or written word. For example - bank:

Logos

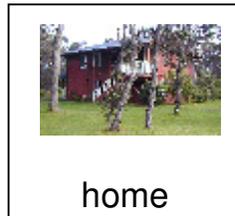

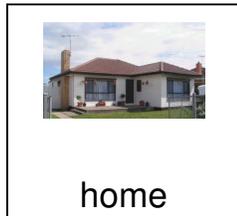

- Use appropriate logos, as required.
- Check with the owner of the logo for their style guide (the rules for using their logo).

For example:

Photographs

- Use clear photographs.
- Remove background and foreground clutter.
- Make the item/s in the photograph the main part of the photograph.
- Use a clear background screen when you take photographs of objects.
- Reduce glare and reflection from surfaces.

Check you have chosen the best images.

Cover your writing.

- Do the images make sense visually, without the writing?
- Do the images represent the idea or concept being discussed?
- Will the person reading the document be able to relate to the images from their life experiences?

9. Use of Colour

- Use high contrast colours. Usually use dark colours for the writing such as:

Yellow and blue

Or

Black and white

Make white writing big and bold. Use a dark background.

- Highlight headings with colour.
- Do not overuse bright colours.
- Do not use a lot of different colours in the one document.

10. Paper

- Use heavy-weight paper, no less than 100GSM.
- Use matt paper.
